

Introduction

- Having only one user is not best practice
 - The password would be shared between people
- The `elastic` user should be used as little as possible
- Not everyone should have access to everything

What's going on?!

- We were able to sign in just fine
- We were just sent to a page that we don't have access to
- We didn't give our user any privileges (i.e. roles)
- Let's fix that in the next lecture — see you there!
