

Lecture summary

- Histograms dynamically build buckets based on field values
- Each bucket contains the documents that match a given interval
- Great approach for working with range values
  - We don't need to define the ranges explicitly